

Univation Technologies Launches New Brand and Website

Univation Technologies is the leading technology licensor to the worldwide PE industry. But we do much more than license the UNIPOL™ PE process. We also supply innovative catalysts and unparalleled experience to help our customers seize opportunities and operate profitably.

Safe, proven to deliver, innovative, flexible, designed to adapt – all characteristics of the global company we are today – characteristics we believe are better symbolized by a new look and website, one that more truly reflects who we are today.

What we stand for hasn't changed though. We understand customers look to us to provide the appropriate technology solutions that will best serve their needs. In an industry that is dynamic and challenging, being successful in polyethylene requires a long term view. The economic environment will change and Univation's innovative solutions will continue to help its customers navigate the market needs and stakeholder's requirements for many years to come.

We're excited about our new look and the improvements we've made. Our updated brand and continued investment in technology continues to demonstrate our strong commitment to the industry and our customers.

We're always interested in your feedback, so please email us your comments through our Contact page.

Kenneth T. Glover
President and CEO
Univation Technologies, LLC